

SCENE SETUP FOR ACTORS:

- Your character has always dreamed of owning her own vintage shop and has been saving for the day to make it happen.
- We're going to play a series of scenes where we jump forward in time from one moment of your journey to the next.
- We'll try the scene a number of times where we change the stakes or your character's motivations.
- Each time you'll end the final scene with your advisor with the line: I'm thinking of expanding.

SCENES / BEATS:

Scene 1 – Business Inspiration Trip

- You're walking down the street on the way to work.
- You feel your watch buzz and glance down at your notifications.
- You read the alert "Business Inspiration Trip Goal: 100%".
- You come to a stop, realization sets in.
- Immediately your mind begins racing, you've been waiting for this day and now: it's time.
- We jump forward in time.

Scene 2 – European Market

- Your arms are full of amazing antiques as you wander through a beautiful European marketplace.
- You round a corner and come to a stop when you spy something.
- All the way down at the end of the market aisle is a rare treasure.
- You peer over the packages in your hands trying to make sure your eyes aren't playing tricks on you.
- There in a market stall is a one-of-a-kind, 18th century, Alfonso vase in perfect condition.
- You have to have it.
- We jump forward in time.

Scene 3 – Set Down Vase in shop window look around with pride.

- You are in your very own vintage shop.
- You set down the vase carefully on a display in the shop window.
- You look around at all the treasures that you've curated.
- The shop is bustling. Your dream has been realized.
- We jump forward in time.

Scene 4 – Advisor Call

- Your advisor answers the phone.
- Advisor: Hey Rebecca, how can I help you?
- Rebecca: I'm thinking of expanding.
- Your advisor responds enthusiastically to the idea.
