THE SCENE

You're setting up the dinner table. In the other room, Grandpa teaches your son how to play chess. Your son complains about how hard it is.

Grandpa: This is hard?! When we first came to Canada things were a lot harder than this!

You've heard this story a million times before. You quietly say:

Dad: Here we go again.

Grandpa hears you. In a playful way, you mimic Grandpa and steal his line:

Dad: We went to so many places to get our banking set up.

Grandpa looks unimpressed. You return to your own mannerisms.

Dad: Then you switched to the bank you're with now and got everything you need in one place.

You give him a warm smile.
